MUCH ENTHUSIASM SHOWN

Emporia, Kan., August 26—The mystery of the burial of a coffin filled with ice at Orlando, Logan county, Okla., has been cleared away. It was not an attempt at an insurance swindle, but an attempt to escape prosecution for bigamy. Coda S. Morris, with a recently married wife in Emporia, was "buried" by himself, alias John Cox of Gentry, Mo. His real name was James Pendleton, and he is mayor of Gentry, Mo., where he has a wife and five children. His attempt to "bury" Coda S. Morris at Orlando was to elude his bride, Grace Obley-Morris of Emporia.

James Pendleton, alias Coda S. Morris, alias John Cox, was arrested yesterday. Pendleton made a full confession to the sheriff of Lyon county, and newspaper men here this morning. Sheriff O'Connor went to Albany, ten miles from Gentry, Mo., and returned to Emporia with Pendleton last night. Mrs. Coda Morris accompanied Sheriff O'Connor. She identified Pendleton as the man to whom she was married June 17 in Emporia by the Rev. Mr. Parker of the Christian church. Pendleton wailed when he met the woman he had wronged, but would not talk. The warrant was sworn out for Pendleton's arrest on the charge of bigamy, by his second wife, Grace Obley-Morris of Emporia.

The clew that led to Pendleton's arrest after the mixed up mystery of which he was the author, originated from the fact that August 15, when he, "John Cox," bought the coffin and the 200 pounds of ice at Perry, Okla., for the burial of Coda Morris, he also purchased a crate of peaches. The coffin and ice were sent to Orlando, the peaches to Mrs. James Pendleton, Gentry, Mo. On this clew, the mystery was solved. It was discovered that James Pendleton returned to his home in Gentry, August 16, from Oklahoma, after an absence of eight months. Sheriff O'Connor, of Lyon county, telegraphed the marshal of Gentry to arrest Pendleton. He refused to do so because Gentry was the mayor. O'Connor then telephoned Sheriff Barkley at Albany, Mo., the county seat, to arrest Pendleton, and he did so Saturday night. After being arrested Pendleton refused to talk, but this morning in the county jail here, he made a full confession, admitting that he had been leading a double life, and that he had buried himself to avoid prosecution for bigamy.

Captain J. R. Puryear has gone to Nashville on business.

Some people may rely upon the board of equalization rectifying any mistakes of excessive valuation made by the assessor. In this they will be disappointed. The board may increase valuations, but has no power to reduce them, and this supervisory power can only be exercised in four years, unless in the meantime the property has undergone a change, either by the destruction of improvements worth more than a hundred dollars, or the addition of improvements of equal value. What property owners should do is to begin at once to take their lists to the city assessor. He is not obliged to go for them. That is a matter of which is liable to be overlooked. It is not a part of the duty of the assessor to hunt up the owner and inquire of him his opinion as to what assessment should be set down against him. * * *

The charter recites, "When an assessment has been made against a person who has had an actual notice to appear and list his property, or make statements thereof, and fails to do so, the same shall not be decreased but many are increased by the board of equalization. If any person refuses to attend when summoned or refuse to be sworn to answer, or refuse to answer any questions propounded to him by the assessor or his deputy * * * the assessor or his deputy may ask the police judge to issue a warrant against such person." The fine for refusing to attend when summoned, or for refusing to answer proper questions, is $10. A policeman will be detailed to serve the summons upon property owners, so that they shall have proper notice.

"As to the assessment of personalty, the law will be enforced. Here-

Paducah is to have her first assessment under the second class charter next month, and it will be for four years. The assessment is as to the value on September 15, and the new tax levy must be made before January 1.

The Herald, of Lexington, also a second class city, has the following to say of the assessment there:

"Owners of real estate in the city of Lexington cannot be too often, nor too earnestly reminded that the assessment of their property which will be made September 15 next, will stand as the assessment for four years. It behooves every owner to leave nothing to guess work and to relieve the assessor of the necessity of putting a valuation upon property. The law requires him to do this to the best of his knowledge and ability, where the owner fails to refuse to give in his list. * * *

There will be no copying of old assessments, and the man who says to himself that he has the same property this year that he had last year, and the assessor may just copy that list, will be disappointed, for it will not be copied. The valuations will be made independently of any heretofore made. There will be an actual inspection of every piece of real estate, and if the owner will not assist the assessor by bringing his list to him, with the owner's valuation of each piece, that valuation will be made without his assistance.

"Some people may rely upon the board of equalization rectifying any mistakes of excessive valuation made by the assessor. In this they will be disappointed. The board may increase valuations, but has no power to reduce them, and this supervisory power can only be exercised in four years, unless in the meantime the property has undergone a change, either by the destruction of improvements worth more than a hundred dollars, or the addition of improvements of equal value. What property owners should do is to begin at once to take their lists to the city assessor. He is not obliged to go for them. That is a matter of which is liable to be overlooked. It is not a part of the duty of the assessor to hunt up the owner and inquire of him his opinion as to what assessment should be set down against him. * * *

Miss Drusy Hand, who is now in Superintendent H. U. Wallace's office at Freeport, arrived in the city this morning to visit her parents.

Huntingdon, August 26—News has just reached here that Miss Maud Thompson was killed by James Greer, near the young lady's home in Henderson county.

The report says that Greer was at the girl's house last spring and tried to get her to go away with him, which she refused to do. He told her he was coming back in August, and if she did not go with him then he would kill her.

On the day set for Greer to come back he accosted Miss Maud and her mother as they were returning from a neighboring family. He came out of a gully and overtook the two women, asking the elder, "Have you got anything against me?" She answered, "No," and Maud spoke up and said, "None of us have anything against you."

Greer then said, "Miss Maud, I have a word for you," and, stepping between Maud and her mother, said something in a low tone which the mother did not hear, threw one arm around Maud's neck and shot her twice with a pistol. The girl lived only a short time.

Chicago, August 26—Doubt as to the identity of the body buried as Minnie Mitchell must for some time complicate the mystery shrouding the Bartholin-Mitchell murder case.

For the second time Judge Brentano today refused to issue an order to exhume the body of the woman, which was found on August 7 in the weeds of a lonely field at Seventy-fourth and State streets. A plan was on foot to have dentists who worked on the young woman's teeth inspect those of the dead body to clear up the doubts of identity, but Robert Mitchell, brother of the supposed deceased, declined to sign affidavits necessary for the exhumation. He said his family was willing that the body be disinterred, but that although the only means of identification they had were articles of clothing found near the dead body, they were not willing to take the initiative.

Miss Elizabeth Walsh of Louisville will arrive in the city Saturday and beginning Monday will conduct a five days' drill with the teachers of the primary department of the local schools.

This is a plan that Superintendent Hatfield worked out to secure better results in the primary department, and he thinks that the schools will be advanced at least one year by the drill. Miss Walsh is a supervisor in the public schools at Louisville and under her supervision the schools there have undergone wonderful progress. She teaches the latest methods which have been taught throughout the country, and the pupils are handled easier and to a better advantage under her method. She will be assisted here by Superintendent Hatfield and several of the higher teachers. Superintendent Hatfield has issued a call to all the primary teachers for Monday, and beginning with that day the drill will be continued for five days, ending Friday afternoon.

In regard to the vaccination of pupils Superintendent Hatfield stated this morning that all pupils, in accordance with the law passed by the board last year, will have to show a good vaccination scar or will have to be vaccinated before they can enter into the schools. There has been much trouble in the schools on account of this heretofore, and the board found it necessary to pass the rule to save the teachers' time and also to prevent a hitch in the studies, as whenever a smallpox scare visited the city the teachers would have to spend sometimes two days in seeing to the pupils in regard to proper vaccination.

All the buildings are now in the best of condition and the work ordered by the board has all about been finished. The plumbers at the high school will have steam up in the boiler by the 1st of the month and the only building where the plumbing remains incomplete is the Jefferson building, and this will be finished before the opening of the schools.

A BAD NEGRO.

JOE JOHNSON BROUGHT IN FROM MAYFIELD TODAY.

Marshal McNutt of Mayfield arrived in the city at noon with Joe Johnson, colored, one of the negroes charged with stealing pistols from the Geo. O. Hart store. Two pistols of excellent make were found on him. He is known to have served a term in the penitentiary from Henderson and is a mean negro. He had a woman with him whom he claimed was his wife. At Mayfield his trunk, filled with articles of many kinds, is held and it is thought that the contents were stolen.

NAVAL RECRUITS.

The following recruits have been enlisted by the naval recruiting officers since yesterday afternoon: John M. Allison and Ed Craig, of Prayorsburg, Ky., and Ephraim Miller of Friendship, Ill.

Attorney W. A. Berry is much improved and is now able to sit up. His many friends will be pleased to learn that he is recovering.

The first day of the Paducah gun club's big tournament opened today under rather unpropitious circumstances, as a light rain fell during the day. A large number of crack marksmen are here to attend.

There are several good events today, but the big day is Thursday. Among those who arrived last night and today are: Al Shellerking, Evansville, Ind.; W. W. Watson, Louisville; Andy Meaders, Joel A. Carter, Dr. P. McAllen, George Shields, Jr., Frank Legler, J. B. Martin, W. W. Phillips, G. H. Hillman, Nashville; W. A. Long, Mt. Pleasant, Tenn.; W. D. Thompson, Memphis; J. T. Griffin and James Lewis, Owensboro; C. O. Le Compte, Eminence; C. W. Phelps, Cincinnati; F. F. Torrey, Cairo; M. Gentry Hillman, Birmingham, Ala.; D. A. McGehee, Carner Mills, Ill.; G. H. Mitchell and Gus Mitchell, West End, Ill.; N. Money, New Haven, Ky.; R. S. McMillan and D. A. Kimball, Tilden, Ill., and Charles G. Spencer, St. Louis.

Those who arrived yesterday are: Hood Waters and Lewis Williams, Jr., representatives of the Lafin and Rand Powder company, of New York; John W. Mackie, of the Peters Cartridge company, of Cincinnati; R. O. Heikes, of Dayton, O.; who won third money in the Grand American handicap at Kansas City this year; Ben Eich, of the Dupont Powder company; H. W. Koeler and S. J. Higgins, of Duquoin, Ill.

The club this year has two sets of Maugua traps having borrowed these of the Railroad Gun club, which club will assist the Paducah club in holding the event this year. Targets will be thrown fifty yards. The weight of guns is limited to eight pounds. Shells of all kinds and any load will be for sale on the grounds.

Today's events were:

Event No. 1, 15 targets—Entrance $1.50, $5 added.

Event No. 2, 20 targets—Entrance $2, $7 added.

Event No. 3, 15 targets—Entrance $1.50, $5 added.

Event No. 4, 20 targets—Entrance $2, $7 added.

Event No. 5, 15 targets—Entrance $1.50, $5 added.

Event No. 7, 15 targets—Entrance $1.50, $5 added.

Event No. 8, 20 targets—Entrance $2, $7 added.

Event No. 9, 15 targets—Entrance $1.50, $5 added.

Event No. 10, 20 targets—Entrance $2, $7 added.

The rain, however, did not affect the shooters. The shooting today was the best, in point of numbers, ever held here, and there were ten squads shooting in the forenoon. The club has good sheds there, and the members do not mind a little rain.

Captain Weille has provided well for every emergency, and certainly deserves credit for the splendid manner in which he has arranged for the guests. He is the busiest man in town, and does everything for the convenience of the visitors and members of the home club.

Mr. Jim Baldwin, the well known printer, left at noon today for St. Louis, where he has accepted a position on the St. Louis Chronicle.

M. E. CONFERENCES

Annual Meeting of the Methodist Churches Take Place This Fall.

Louisville Conference, North, on September 24 at Louisville, and South on October 1 at Columbia, Ky.

MEMPHIS CONFERENCE NOV. 19

The Kentucky conference of the Methodist church, North, including all the state of Kentucky, will meet in Trinity church, at Louisville, September 24. The opening addresses will be made by the Rev. W. P. Thirkield, D. D., of Cincinnati, and the Rev. Manley S. Hard, of Philadelphia.

During Wednesday there will be an examination of young ministers on the course of study required by the church. Every applicant for the ministry is required to pass through a four year course, whether or not he is a college graduate. The first business session of the conference will be held Thursday morning, September 25. It will be opened by Bishop J. M. Walden, LL. D., of Cincinnati. Thursday afternoon there will be meetings of the Woman's Home Mission Society and the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society.

Thursday night, it is expected, the missionary address of the conference will be made by the distinguished bishop of India, the Rev. James M. Thoburn. Friday afternoon the Rev. Thomas B. Neely, D. D., of New York city, will speak on Sunday school work. Friday night the Rev. W. W. Ramsey, late of Philadelphia, but now of Lexington, one of the leading preachers in Methodism, will speak in the interest of superannuated ministers and preachers' widows.

Saturday afternoon the Rev. F. W. Harrop, of Maysville, will preach the conference annual missionary sermon. Sunday morning at 10:30 there will be a sermon by Bishop Walden. In the

DID YOU EVER

Stop to calculate how much money you spend foolishly? Suppose you do it and then make up your mind to put this amount in bank for a few months and see how much you will have. Just a dime a day amounts to $36.50 a year and most of us spend several times that amount. Let us make you a proposition. Suppose you come get one of our Home Savings Banks and drop your odd change in, say a dime or two dimes, a day, and let us pay you interest on it. In a few months you will have a nice bank account, and you will have formed the savings habit and started well on the road to riches.

We pay interest on your deposits and are as anxious to get the small accounts as the large ones.

afternoon there will be a memorial service for deceased ministers, and later an ordination service for the ordination of deacons.

All of Monday will be devoted to conference business, and it is expected that the appointments will be announced and an adjournment taken by Monday night.

The annual session of the Louisville conference, Methodist Episcopal church South, will be held at Columbia, Ky., beginning Wednesday, October 1. The conference will continue about a week. Bishop Morrison will preside, and there will be a number of addresses by prominent divines in attendance.

A large amount of routine business will come before the conference, but the principal feature of general interest will be the assignment of ministers for the coming year. In Louisville there are several ministers who have served the four years allowed at one place, and must thereafter be changed. Others may change for various reasons, and there will probably be several new faces in Louisville pulpits after the conference. Among those who have served four years are the Rev. J. W. Moore, of the Fourth avenue church, and the Rev. U. G. Foote, of the Chestnut street church. It is generally understood that Dr. Moore will go south, and where Dr. Foote will go is a matter of conjecture. The Rev. B. M. Messick, presiding elder of the Louisville district, has not been there four years as yet, and it is not thought that he will be changed.

The meeting of the Memphis conference is some time off yet. It will be held at Paris, Tenn., November 19, and is one of greatest importance to the people of Paducah, as it embraces all the local churches except the one in Mechanicsburg. Bishop Hoss is to preside over it.

SAILS TOMORROW.

MISS LOTTA GREENUP HAS LEFT LOUISVILLE FOR BERLIN.

Miss Lotta Greenup left Louisville yesterday for the east, and tomorrow will sail for Berlin, where she goes to study the violin. She expects to remain abroad at least two years and, already an accomplished musician, her friends confidently expect her to return finished for a successful career with her chosen instrument. In the party with her will be Miss Edith Watts, Mrs. Clarke, Miss Emily Dembitz and Mr. Chris Anderson.

NEW ALDERMEN.

SEVERAL MENTIONED FOR THE TWO VACANCIES.

Mayor D. A. Yeiser is expected to make his aldermanic appointments to fill the two vacancies occasioned by the resignation of Aldermen Langstaff and Boone next week. He has not decided on his man, but the following are mentioned: Messrs. J. A. Rudy, Henry Orme and Dr. J. T. Reddick.

300,000 BRICK ON A PARGE.

Katterjohn and Co. and Chamblin and Murray have loaded 300,000 bricks on the big Barrett barge brought to the city last week, and it will be towed to Shreveport, La., at once, the brick to be used in building an oil refinery near there. The barge would have held the entire 500,000, but they could not be loaded onto it on account of low water.

GRAND DICTATOR

ENTERTAINED.

The Knights of Honor last evening entertained Grand Dictator A. J. Hess, of Louisville, who addressed them. Refreshments were served and the evening entertainment closed with a smoker.

Grateful people will talk. Tell their experience for the public good.

Paducah citizens praise Doan's Kidney Pills.

Kidney sufferers appreciate this.

They find relief for every kidney ill.

Read what this citizen says:

Mrs. M. S. Smith, of 323 Jefferson street says: "I complained of kidney complaint for a number of years, in fact, dating back to 1884. There was difficulty with the kidney secretions which annoyed me both day and night and a dull pain across the small of my back caused me great discomfort. I was induced to procure Doan's Kidney Pills at DuBois and Co.'s drug store and after taking the treatment a short time I noticed a great change in my condition, and the improvement steadily continued until I felt better than for a long time previous. Doan's Kidney Pills are such an excellent and effective preparation that it is a pleasure for me to recommend them to others."

Supervisor Martin Cahan of the Louisville division of the I. C. is in the city today on business.

PEACHES SCARCE.

THERE ARE SAID TO BE MORE IN THE CITY THAN IN THE COUNTRY.

The scarcity of the peach crop this year is well known to everybody by this time, but it seems a peculiar thing that most of the trees in the city are well filled with fruit, while those outside of town are entirely bare. Why this is no one seems to know, but it is a fact.

Former Councilman G. R. Davis has a tree in his yard that has been yielding cream peaches for the past two weeks. They are so thick that they come in clusters of half a dozen in places. There are many other trees well filled in the residence yards of Paducah also, and the country gardener eyes them most enviously as he drives past with his wagon of truck every morning.

BLAZE AT BRICKYARD

SHED DAMAGED BY FIRE LATE YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

The fire department was called out late yesterday afternoon to extinguish a small blaze at the Katterjohn brickyard. The fire started under the shed and the damage will probably amount to several hundred dollars.

On their way to the fire the department came near being run over by an N. C. and St. L. switch engine at the street crossing, the flagman not warning them in time. The plunging animals were stopped only a few feet from the locomotive.

Supervisor Martin Cahan of the Louisville division of the I. C. is in the city today on business.

PHYSICIAN AND DRUGGISTS.

Ford and Sturgeon, a prominent drug firm at Rocky Hill Station, Ky., write: "We were requested by Dr. G. B. Snigley to send for Herbine for the benefit of our customers. However slight at this time of year and in this climate, it is the forerunner of malaria. A disposition to yawn, and an all tired out feeling even comes before the chill. WHERE ILLITERACY LIES

Proportion of Educated Men Larger in City Than Country.

Six Per Cent in Cities Illiterate and 13 Per Cent in the Country.

Washington, August 26.—The census office has issued a preliminary report on illiteracy among men of voting age in city and country districts in the census year 1900. The report includes under the term "illiterate" those who can neither read nor write, and also a small number who can read, but cannot write.

In the United States as a whole, including Alaska and Hawaii, the male population at least 21 years of age and living in cities having at least 25,000 inhabitants was 5,885,644, of whom 339,223, or 6 per cent were represented as illiterate.

In the rest of the country the number of men of voting age was 15,248,655, of whom 1,954,247, or 13 per cent., were reported as illiterate. These figures indicate that illiteracy among adult males is less than half as prevalent in the large cities as it is in the rest of the United States. The difference, the report says, is due largely to the fact that the urban population of the country is massed in the northern and western states, and illiteracy is less frequent there than in other parts of the country.

TO WEAR GRAY

Preparations to Organize a Y. M. C. A. Football Team.

Secretary Hanna to Make a Feature of the Educational Work.

Mr. B. F. Matthys, the physical director of the local Y. M. C. A., will on Tuesday night call the members of the association together to organize or perfect arrangements to organize a football team for the coming season. The association had a football team last year and the games brought in some little revenue to the association.

The uniform adopted by the association is gray trousers with blue sleeveless shirts, and as soon as the classes are organized the uniforms will be ordered. All members will be trained in accordance to regular gymnasium rules and no one will be permitted on the floor without the regular uniform and rubber sole shoes.

Secretary Hanna is rigging up the class rooms upstairs, and will have within a short time all the rooms in the best of condition. He will make a feature of the educational work and will arrange for regular teachers, the best the city affords, to teach in all branches of drawing, free hand, architectural and mechanical, and will make it as good an opportunity for the members to learn as can be secured anywhere.

Former Secretary Escott will arrive in the city today and will complete his financial affairs. He has nearly all the money promised and a few dollars only remain to be subscribed.

A SUMMER TRIP UN-SURPASSED ON THE CONTINENT.

The trip to Salt Lake City or to the Pacific coast via that point over the Denver and Rio Grande and the Rio Grande Western is the most beautiful in America. No European trip of equal length can compare with it in grandeur of scenery or wealth of novel interest. Then Salt Lake City itself is a most quaint and picturesque place and well worth the journey. Its Mormon temple, tabernacle, tithing office and church institutions; its hot sulphur springs within the city limits; its delightful temperature, sunny climate and its great Salt Lake—deader and denser than the Dead Sea in Palestine—are but a few features of Salt Lake City's countless attractions. There are parks, drives, canons and beautiful outlying mountains and lake resorts. Imagine, if you can, a bath in salt water a mile above sea level and in water in which the human body cannot sink. Inquire of your nearest ticket agent for low tourist rates to Salt Lake City, or write for information and copy of "Salt Lake City, the City of the Saints," to S. K. Hooper, general passenger agent, Denver, Colo.

"Duval celebrated his 27th birthday a week ago today. On the day following he led to the altar Miss Flora Chamberlain, whose honeymoon was ended by the crash on the Georgetown trestle before it had rounded out a week.

INSURANCE OBSERVATIONS.

The Lexington Herald, in its usual able manner, makes some wise suggestions relative to the insurance rates
that have created such a storm of protest in Lexington, following the re-rating of the city. A great deal of it can be applied to Paducah as well as Lexington, and none of it will hurt
any of us if we read it.

"Insurance on property has now become a commercial necessity. It was formerly used as protection to the property insured. This is still its primary object, but perhaps not its most important result. No man can borrow money on improved real estate, merchandise, or other personal property unless it is insured; and as a rule in mortgages a provision is inserted that the property must be kept insured at a certain amount. How much property is now under mortgage subject to such stipulation, of course, we do not know. Merchants cannot obtain credit in the east if it is known that the store houses are not insured

and that their stock is not insured.
This subject, therefore, is of universal importance in its various ramifications.
It is not a matter for heated debate, for party conventions, for political rhetoric.

"The insurance companies can declare no dividends on their capital stock except by insuring property at fair rates. Their policies are worthless unless the companies are solvent companies, paying dividends. Low premiums may mean wholly unsatisfactory insurance. The insured is perhaps more interested in the entire solvency of the insurance company than the stockholders themselves. * *

"The old mode of rating was partial, unsatisfactory and unprofitable.
The new system is based upon just principles. They may not in every case be worked out in a particular city with intelligence and justice. The people howled about a "beef

trust" when prices were high, principally because the demand was greater
than the supply, and now the packers have consolidated, according to reports, and will fire a lot of their
men, close down some of the present
packing houses, and proceed to enjoy
a sure enough monopoly. There is already talk of establishing rival
packing houses, but they likely could
not hold out long against the cut-rate
prices such a gigantic combination
could make.

The next time Mr. Bryan withdraws from the race for the Democratic presidential nomination he ought to copy his reason from Hon. Henri Watterson's late valedictory, stating that he didn't want the nomination because it was already nailed down—by another fellow.

The dispatches yesterday told of a man whose body was forced through a five inch hole. It is probable that the Democratic county committee that "met" last week could now crawl through a much smaller hole than that. *

It will soon be cold weather, and the effect of the coal strike will be more apparent in the east. Fortunately we don't use much hard coal down here, so we can afford to look on and let the other fellows fight it out.

The last time Jo A. Parker, the basic principle involved in this system is that the premium charged shall be based upon the risk insured against;

that property exposed to many risks shall be required to pay a larger premium than property exposed to fewer risks. One advantage of this system has been to greatly diminish
the risks. For instance, if the action of the insurance companies would force in this city safe, prudent and scientific use of electric wires, if it would result in larger facilities, and in a more efficient fire department, the result would be well worth the trouble and annoyance to which the individual citizens might be put. We do not mean to criticize the efficiency of our present fire department, but we do know that the facilities are not such as they ought to be. We ought to have more hydrants over the city.
We ought to have more hose, and we suppose it is true that we ought to have a larger department.

"In certain cities no man is allowed to construct a house except under the supervision of a fire inspector.
The ranges, flues, wires, fire walls,
partitions, openings must be arranged with a view to fire protection. How far this is done at all in this town is a subject with which we are not sufficiently familiar to do more than suggest its importance. * * *

"The insurance companies want to do the business. The owners of the property want the protection. The insurance must be had. It is no longer a matter of option, but of necessity. It is to the untold advantage of the city that the property should be made as safe as practicable."

A well known gentleman who is touring the south, and takes a lively interest in the welfare of Paducah, writes The Sun that our people should come down to Jackson, Miss., if they want to see what it means to improve a city. "The place," he says, "has only 8,500 inhabitants, yet they have in course of construction 123 new buildings, a beautiful $40,000 court house, a million dollar capital buildings, and have just contracted for a mile and a half of brick streets. The secret of the success and progress of the place is due largely to the fact that the administration of affairs is in the hands of young men, and they are making the old town wake up. Paducah, it seems, needs some young blood."

The people howled about a "beef
trust" when prices were high, principally because the demand was greater
than the supply, and now the pack-
ers have consolidated, according to
reports, and will fire a lot of their
men, close down some of the present
packing houses, and proceed to enjoy
a sure enough monopoly. There is
already talk of establishing rival
packing houses, but they likely could
not hold out long against the cut-rate
prices such a gigantic combination
could make.

ratic presidential nomination he ought to

terson's late valedictory, stating that

The last time Jo A. Parker, the firstwhile Populist editor of Paducah,

was heard of, he was out in Kansas
trying to hold a national Populist convention with six other Populists.

Chairman Charles Emery, of the Democratic county committee, if there is such a thing left, didn't stay fired long.

It looks as if they will have to put Chairman Emery out some more.

AGAIN IN FAVOR.

MUCH RAISING OF BILLS RE-PORTED TO GOVERNMENT.

The federal authorities of the state,
according to the Owensboro Inquirer, are between a sweat and a shiver on account of the numerous instances of counterfeiting by means of raised bills reported from various parts of the state. At Hopkinsville a few weeks ago, a Tennessee deputy sheriff was captured with some of the raised bills in his possession, after having passed at least two. He was held for trial.
A day or two ago several of the bills
were found in circulation at Hickman,
others at Paducah and one at Russellville. At Bowling Green bills were found in the hands of the business men and other innocent parties. It has not been so very long since at least was passed in Owensboro. The favorite raise seems to be to make $20 out of a $2 bill, as nearly every instance reported shows these amounts,
except the local one, which raised a one to a ten.

"In such cases the parties are not only liable for the tax, but are also liable to a penalty of 20 per cent. of the amount of tax collected. The way to avoid this expense is to report all personality to the officers."

Mr. W. S. Dick, last year county assessor, is this year city assessor.

SIGNIFICANCE OF NUMBER SEVEN

Woven Into the History of the World
in Many Peculiar Ways.

The number seven is not only considered a lucky number by the superstitious, but it was a symbolical number in the Bible, a swell as among nations of antiquity. In the Old Testament we note that the Creator took seven days, and the seventh day was a sacred day of rest. Every seventh year was sacred, and the seven times seventh year ushered in a year of jubilee. There are seven principal virtues—faith, hope, charity, prudence, temperance, chastity and fortitude—and there are also seven deadly sins—pride, covetousness, lust, anger, gluttony, envy and sloth. There were seven champions of Christendom—St.
George (England), St. Andrew (Scotland), St. Patrick (Ireland), St. David (Wales), St. Denis (France), St. James
(Spain) and St. Anthony (Italy). There were seven ages of man, also seven wise men of Greece. Christ spoke seven times on the cross. Rome was built on seven hills, and there are innumerable other traditions which go to prove that seven was a number to cling to. In these more modern times it is wonderful how often the number prevails. For instance, vaccination must take place every seven years, in order to escape small-pox; fashions change every seven years, and seven years is always a milestone in a person's age.

"I know positively that my son is innocent of the crime of murder," he said. "I have the absolute proof in my possession." It is more than ten months since the court of appeals granted Molinaux a new trial. During that time the general has worked up the evidence through which, he says, he will establish the innocence of his son beyond the shadow of a doubt.

BLAIR.

Cincinnati, O., Aug. 26.—Miss Leora
Gooch, daughter of Congressman D.

Linn Gooch of Covington, was the heroine of Gooch's Island, in the Greenbrier river, Va., late Saturday,
by a thrilling rescue of Miss Lena B.

Blair of Cincinnati, who took cramps while bathing. Miss Gooch went to her rescue and succeeded in getting her to shoal water, assisted by Miss

Oskamp of Cincinnati, but not before

Miss Blair had become unconscious.

Artificial respiration was resorted to,

but it was hours before Miss Blair was convalescent.

"I'm not Willie," replied the boy

THE NEW ASSESSMENT

tofore, taxpayers have exercised their own judgment as to what was taxable

and what was not taxable personality.

The law requires that each person owning or having in his possession or under his control as agent, guardian,

committee, executor, administrator,

curator, trustee, receiver, commissioner or otherwise, tangible or intangible personal property on the 15th of September, are required on or before the 1st day of October to give him, the assessor, a true and complete list of the same, with the value thereof."

After the complete list is given it is for the assessor to say what part of it is taxable and what is not. Many persons believe that if they lend money

upon property in another county that the notes or mortgages are not taxable here, and fail to list them. So it is with cash on deposit in banks in another city or state. So it is with stocks in foreign corporations. All stocks of any kind should be reported to the as-ssessor. If they are not taxable they will not be assessed. * * *

"In such cases the parties are not

MORE LITIGATION.

FISHERMEN MAY BE MADE TO PAY AT REELFOOT.

Memphis, August 26—Captain J. C. Harris arrived from Tiptonville, Tenn., and was seen in regard to any further developments in the celebrated Reelfoot lake litigation, a feature of which was settled by the supreme court at Jackson several months ago.

He stated that his lawyers were drafting a bill of injunction to be filed in the chancery court at Union City this week, asking that sportsmen who fish and hunt on the lake for profit, selling their game to dealers and customers, be restrained from plying their trade unless he was paid a sufficient royalty. The supreme court decided that Captain Harris was the owner of the lake, but could not drain it because of the fact that its drainage would be detrimental to adjoining lands.

The lake being his property, he now desires to control it.

He stated that he did not desire to exact any pay from visiting sportsmen who came down to fish and hunt for pleasure and recreation, but to enhance the value of the lake as a tempting spot, he wanted to protect the fish and ducks from the professional sportsmen who sold the game for profit.

Difference in Human Nature.

Hugues le Roux tells of a conversation with Guy de Maupassant, in which Le Roux narrated the story of a Kansas cattleman whose remorse, after defrauding cattle buyers by selling waterlogged cattle in order that he might get enough money to buy his daughter a piano, was poignant. The cattleman was described by Le Roux as unable to sleep and as going forth at night into the cold, wet fields to shiver, beat his breast and pour forth his agony of soul. Maupassant is said to have responded: "Right there is the difference between the man of France and one of another race. The French peasant, if he had played such a trick upon the buyers of his property, would have been intensely proud of it."

Famous Writer of Hymns.

Fannie Crosby, now 80 years of age and blind, but still working, has written upward of 5,000 church hymns. She tells in a St. Louis newspaper that "Safe in the Arms of Jesus," a hymn sung throughout Christendom, was written in fifteen minutes. Mrs. Crosby has recently written her first music, all her previous work having been confined to the words.

The End of the Season

Translated from the French by Lawrence B. Fletcher.

A IX. Autumn. The cosmopolitan crowd of visitors is rapidly thinning. An elegant sea, surrounded by flower beds that have lost their glory, and lawns dotted with fallen leaves.

Persons:

Mme. d'Avila, a dazzling Creole beauty of 23, with coal-black hair, piercing eyes and lips red with health and spirits.

Mme. d'Avila, her mother. Fifty-five; a typical parvenue; rouged and enameled; commonly nicknamed "Mme. Cardinal of the Tropics."

Mme. de Saily, a good-looking young fellow of 30, with an engaging manner.

Lynne (glancing at the sparse promenaders on the avenue)—Well, this is the end, and we have another season to our credit.

Mme. d'Avila—To our debit rather. Another failure! The third this year, counting Spa and Houlgate.

Lynne—It isn't my fault, I am sure. I have done the impossible, almost, to win the prize—husband!

Mme. d'Avila—And so have I.

Lynne—Yes. You have done too much. Several times, when I thought I had more than a nibble, you arrived on the scene and pulled on the line so hastily that the trout slipped off the hook and got away.

Mme. d'Avila—Oh yes! Insult your mother after all the sacrifices—

Lynne—Were they not partly for yourself—chiefly, I should say, seeing that even if we had caught one of your old reprobates, it was not you, but I, that would have had to marry him?

Mme. d'Avila—My dear, I had perfect confidence in your ability to tame the worst of them after marriage. But we never got that far!

Lynne—And we never shall, with your system. Your ideas are too grand. You aim too high.

Mme. d'Avila—Oh, I admit that I made a sad mistake, but there is no use in quarreling about it now. It is time for action. Something must be done at once. You saw our bank statement this morning?

Lynne—Of course. Twenty thousand francs. Say eight months' respite. Then the altar, or—Ahi! There is M. de Saily with his hat in the air. You don't know much about him, do you?

Mme. d'Avila—No. I have inquired of several people, but their answers were contradictory and unconvincing.

Lynne—He is not bad looking, at all events. I could learn to love him so much better than your old cripples. But, perhaps, as you know nothing definite about him, he is crippled too—financially.

Mme. d'Avila—Well, it is the last chance and it may be worth trying. Have you had any conversation with him?

Lynne—Only trivialities. We have met two or three times. He asked me for a walk the other evening. . . . He is coming this way. You must contrive to leave us alone for a few minutes.

(Hat in hand, M. de Saily approaches and pays his respects to the ladies.)

Mme. d'Avila (after the conventional civilities have been exchanged)—Are they still playing in the card room?

Saily—I think so. It is almost the only thing left.

Mme. d'Avila—I feel a mad longing to hazard a few louis. Allow me to confide my daughter to your care, M. de Saily.

Lynne—Oh, mamma!

Mme. d'Avila (going)—A few minutes, only. Just long enough to lose—say 500 francs.

Lynne (aside)—Neatly done! (Aloud)

—What makes you smile, monsieur?

De Saily—Your mother's words.

Lynne (unconsciously)—The 500 francs?

De Saily—No, her confiding you to my care.

Lynne—You will be a faithful guardian, I trust?

De Saily—Oh, the honesty of the guardian, you know, depends upon the value of the treasure.

Lynne (ostentatiously changing the subject)—Have you been here long?

De Saily—Let me see. Ten days ago I had the honor of being presented to you by my friend Marcellin. I had arrived the day before. Have you spent the whole season here?

Lynne—Almost. My mother and I are very fond of Aix, and are among the last to leave, as you see.

De Saily—Are you going back to Paris?

Lynne—No. We are going first to Touraine, for the hunting. Mamma bought a chateau there last year.

De Saily (tentatively)—Touraine? I know the country thoroughly. What part of Touraine?

Lynne (embarrassed)—A few miles from Tours, near Valençay. (Quickly and gushingly) Oh, how I love the grand, free, open-air country life, with its horses, dogs, sports of all kinds. Are you interested in the country, monsieur?

De Saily—Very much so. The care of my estates occupies much of my time.

Lynne (with a good deal of curiosity)—Then your estates must be extensive.

De Saily—Yes, very; and, as I am an only son, I have the entire care of them. In addition, I have one passion, yachting.

Lynne—I have the same. I adore the sea. When I lived in Brazil I often went out on my uncle's vessels.

De Saily—You are a Brazilian, then?

Lynne—Yes. Do I not show it too plainly? My father, whom I lost a few years ago, made his fortune in the diamond mines. But you must know all this already.

De Saily—No. How should I?

Lynne—Oh! watering place gossip—or your friend Marcellin.

De Saily—He met you first at Spa, you remember, and only passed through Aix. I saw scarcely anything of him.

Lynne—Why have you waited so long before coming to—to have this friendly little chat with me?

De Saily—How about the grand duke?

Lynne—Which grand duke?

De Saily—Come! You spoke of gossip. It seemed to be entirely occupied with your approaching marriage to his royal highness.

Lynne (flattered)—Oh! with a cousin of the emperor! How absurd! Besides, to speak frankly, his royal highness is rather—mature. No. I am one of those rare and peculiar women who do not believe in marriage without love.

Lynne—Then you ought not to have interrupted my—paradox, as you call it.

Lynne—Were you going to speak of love? It is easy to talk about, but difficult to demonstrate.

De Saily—Meaning that you would not have been convinced by my demonstration?

Lynne—Even if I had been convinced I could not with propriety, considering the shortness of our acquaintance, have confessed that the demonstration was agreeable.

Lynne—And we never shall, with your system. Your ideas are too grand. You aim too high.

Mme. d'Avila—Oh, I admit that I made a sad mistake, but there is no use in quarreling about it now. It is time for action. Something must be done at once. You saw our bank statement this morning?

Lynne—Of course. Twenty thousand francs. Say eight months' respite. Then the altar, or—Ahi! There is M. de Saily with his hat in the air. You don't know much about him, do you?

first heartfelt romance of my life. I gave up pining for the stars, and was happy in dreaming of a modest, simple existence—with you.

De Saily—(sadly)—We were designed for each other, but destined never to realize the design.

Lynne—Like so many others in this queer world!

De Saily—And, loving each other, we shall each contract the most stupidly conventional of marriages with some one else.

Lynne—And regret it all our lives. (A long silence. Then their hands clasp as if by instinct.)

Lynne (in a choking voice)—Is it adieu?

De Saily—Au revoir, rather, for who knows? Are you doing nice this winter?

Lynne—Yes, and you?

De Saily—Of course. Perhaps we can help each other.

Lynne (more cheerfully)—Agreed! Au revoir, then. (De Saily presses her hand and is gone.)

Mme. d'Avila (returning)—Well! How about De Saily? Is he coming on?

Lynne—Oh, mamma, mamma! He is a—colleague.—N. Y. Post.

CASE OF DESERTION.

MRS. ARTHUR SMITH GOES TO BENTON TO SEEK HER HUSBAND.

Mrs. Arthur Smith, a poorly dressed but rather good looking woman with a two year old boy, was at the city hall today seeking assistance from the mayor. She said her husband deserted her at Benton two months ago with a two year old babe, and she was forced to go to Lewisburg and work in a family there to support herself and child.

Hearing that there was a good place here, she took what money she had and came here with it, but only to fail. She was furnished a ticket to Benton by Mayor Yeiser, and says she understands her husband is back there, and that if he is he cannot live in Marshall county without supporting the child.
